ABOUT US

Genstrut Design Studio is a Structural Designing Firm formed by the partnership of two young professionals Er. Adhilya Davidson and Dr Dharmaraj, who hail from different fields of expertise. The former has a Master's degree in structural engineering from Anna University and is adept in hypothetical knowledge. She has worked in several institutions and construction companies as a designer for tension and compression members, along with exterior and interior designing. The latter was awarded a Doctorate from Bharathiar University in Customer Perception and Satisfaction. With 10 years of experience in sales from various building product manufacturing companies, Dr Dharmaraj is highly conversant with steel and glass industry segments. Our company has got a blend of speculative and material knowledge which helps profusely in serving the customer to the best of his prerequisites. We can provide innovative designs with the fusion of contemporary and traditional designs which are our added advantage. Research on new techniques and new products are being explored and the insights are shared with our clients as an alternative suggestion. Apart from structural designing, we also render allied selling services of building designing and construction materials. We function by presenting our walk-in customers, a wide range of cross-selling products, along with introducing them to our various solution providers. Unlike the dealers, our firm operates by selling an architectural concept, and the interested clients can contact us for the complete execution or necessary assistance in the process. This way, we will be associated with building material suppliers and clients directly or indirectly. In many cases, our clients have preferred our suggestions and the outcome was beyond their expectations.
